Previous EmploymentSenior Behavioural Scientist

ARRB Transport Research Ltd

Leadership of significant road safety projects concerning enforcement programs, decision making processes, psychological factors in unsafe driver behaviour, young driver crashes, and driver acceptance of technological innovation. Projects were funded by Government and private sponsors across Australia. (2000-2001)

Senior Research Fellow (Level C)

Monash University Accident Research Centre

Leadership of a research program (with a team that included 2 or 3 research assistants) focused on the application of psychological knowledge to the development and evaluation of practical road safety countermeasures. The research program included an average of 8 concurrent projects concerned with enforcement programs, decision making processes, psychological factors in unsafe driver behaviour, young driver crashes, and driver acceptance of technological innovation. These projects were conducted under commercial conditions for Government and private sponsors in Victoria, New Zealand, and Sweden. (1998-2000)

Research Fellow (Level B)

Monash University Accident Research Centre

Leadership of road safety research projects with particular interests in the effect of enforcement programs, psychological factors in unsafe driver behaviour, young driver crashes, and driver education. This position involved the supervision of a small research team and a number of projects, in addition to participation in other project teams as required. (1995-1998)

College Counsellor

Mazenod College

Sole counsellor at the College, responsible for student counselling, psychological and achievement testing, and the Duke of Edinburgh Program. (1990-1995)

Professional Officer, (Grade 3)

Monash University Accident Research Centre

Provision of advice and assistance in the development of RBT and recalculation of High and Low Alcohol Times for crashes. (1990)

Principal Research Officer

Road Safety Division, VicRoads

Advice and support to research programs and policy development in road safety and enforcement, and liaison with the Victoria Police on enforcement issues. (1990)

Principal Research Officer and Head (Legislative Programs)

Road Safety Division, VicRoads

Supervision of a research unit concerned with enforcement-related issues and drink-driving, and liaison with the Police concerning enforcement-projects. (1989-1990)

Senior Research Officer

Road Safety Division, VicRoads

Road safety research and liaison with Victoria Police. Projects included: Monitoring alcohol-involvement in crashes, evaluation of enforcement and publicity programs, evaluation of the red-light camera program, evaluation of legislative changes and court penalties. (1986-1989)

Research Officer

Road Safety Division, VicRoads/RTA

Research-assistant position, with projects including monitoring the effects of RBT and an evaluation of the effects of licence cancellation. (1985-1986)

Casual Tutor

Dept of Psychology, Monash University
(1983-1985)

At Various Times

Part-time Private Practice as a Psychologist (1989-1998)

Educator/Presenter, You Can Do It! Education Program (1991-1996)

Marking and Telephone-Tutorial Assistance, Open Learning Psychology Program (1993-1995)
